Preface

This book is more than an index, as it contains additional information. We hope this will help you locate the person for whom you are searching. The marriages are presented in chronological order, and an additional every name index. It represents marriages performed in Lancaster County almost six months before Nebraska officially gained statehood on March 1, 1867. The microfilmed copies of these records are available at the Nebraska State Historical Society and photocopies may be obtained for a small fee.

The original records contain a great deal more information than is included in this index. Except for the very earliest ones, the birthplace, current residence, father's name, mother's maiden name, clergyman, and witnesses might also be found. There are marriages recorded here that took place between people whose residence was not in Lancaster County.

Several marriage returns were incorrectly recorded in the original volumes. Some marriages were never recorded, and at least one couple went to court twenty years later to establish the legality of their marriage when they learned of the omission.

It should be noted here that the handwriting in the original records is not that of the participants, but of a county official or clerk. Those doing the abstracting feel we have learned a great deal concerning the authenticity of records. Many obvious errors were made by the clerks but they are recorded in this index as originally written.

There will be errors in our work too, for as careful as we were, it was difficult to distinguish between many letters. There will probably be cases where we misinterpreted an 'n' for a 'u', a 'u' for 'ee', or perhaps the original entry showed a 'll', simply because the clerk neglected to cross the t's - or perhaps the 'll' were crossed as t's. Different styles of writing made even the first letters of some names difficult to identify, especially T-F, G-E, N-V, W-M and L-S. Though we took great care to correctly decipher the names, we would urge those using this index to check for all possible spellings and pronunciations of a name.

The last few pages of each book contain records of earlier marriages not previously recorded and are out of chronological order, making it impossible to give a cut-off date for each book. For that reason, only the date of application for the first marriage in each volume is listed in the table of contents.

The information for this book was abstracted from the first twenty-six original volumes of Lancaster County, Nebraska, Marriage Records, by volunteers from the Lincoln-Lancaster County Genealogical Society. The final computer print-out was proofed against the original records by more volunteers. Our goal was to publish an index that was as accurate as possible.

In Appreciation

On behalf of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Genealogical Society I wish to thank James A. Hanson, James E. Potter, Sherrill Daniels, Andrea Paul and Dennis Madden of the Nebraska State Historical Society for their co-operation in the use of the Marriage Records. I especially wish to express my appreciation to the following LLCGS volunteers for their many hours of work over the past nineteen months:

I also want to thank Mark Dahmke, Jon Curran and Kenneth Livingston for their time and expertise in working out the computer details for this project.

A final, but very special Thank You to Dick Young, who displayed patience above and beyond what would be expected of a husband.

Evelyn E. Young
Project Chairman

How To Use This Book

NAME: If the given name and a nickname were both used in a record, we recorded only the given name.

SURNAME: This is given, wherever possible, to provide a clue as to the maiden name of a bride listed as "Mrs".

AGE: The age of each person at the time of marriage is given if it was listed on the original record.

DATE: The dates listed are the actual date of marriage, unless there was no marriage return. In these cases, the date of the license application is listed and is designated by DOL. This does not mean the couple was never married, but that no return was recorded.

COLOR: As this is important in doing research on your family, we made note of it in the index. Rather than separate the different descriptions of color, we used "white" and "non-white".

INDEX: The every name index at the back lists brides and grooms names in alphabetical order, and refers you to the correct page of each individual volume.

Introduction

The contract of marriage has been regulated by law in Nebraska since 1855. The first territorial legislature set the age of consent at 21 for males and 18 for females, and prohibited marriage between whites and Negroes or mulattos. Although Nebraska did not have a significant black population, there were a few slaves and free blacks in the territory prior to the Civil War.

The second territorial legislature in 1856 reduced the age of consent to 18 for males and 16 for females. It amended the law on racially-mixed marriages to prohibit whites from marrying anyone having 1/4 or more Negro blood.

The next major change in Nebraska's marriage laws occurred in 1905 when first cousins were barred from marrying by legislative act. In 1913, the laws became even more restrictive with regard to racially-mixed marriages. Banned were marriages between whites and anyone having 1/8 or more Negro, Chinese, or Japanese blood. An interesting change the same year was the prohibition of marriages or divorces by Indian tribal custom. However, prior Indian ceremonial marriages were considered legal.

Before 1923, common law marriages were valid and marriages were considered legal even if no license had been issued. In 1963 the legislature finally repealed the law banning racially-mixed marriages after hearing testimony that the law probably violated the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Had the law not been repealed, the Nebraska statute would have been in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which declared unconstitutional statutes prohibiting interracial marriages.

Before 1971, marriages could only be performed in the county in which the license had been issued. The legislature in 1971 amended the law to allow marriages to be solemnized in a county other than the one where the license was issued so long as that county was specified. The most recent significant change in Nebraska's marriage laws was the 1978 amendment making the age of consent 17 for both males and females.

The 1855 territorial law required the county register of deeds to record marriages. The 1856 legislature designated the probate judge the responsible official and marriage recordation has continued as a function of the county court ever since. Prior to 1912 when the responsibility for statewide marriage recordation was assigned to the Nebraska Bureau of Vital Statistics, marriage records existed only at the county level. Since 1912 a dual system of county and state record-keeping has existed.

The State Archives at the Nebraska State Historical Society has acquired county marriage records prior to 1912 both as originals and on microfilm. Many such records are available at the Society's headquarters in Lincoln. The Archives generally has not attempted to accession post-1912 marriage records because they are being preserved by the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Marriage records represent a valuable resource for historical, sociological, and genealogical research. Though the records are usually indexed by the county court, the original indexes are neither as accurate nor as thorough as scholars or family historians might prefer. To address this need, the Lincoln-Lancaster County Genealogical Society has re-indexed the marriage records of Lancaster County, Nebraska, September 23, 1866 to July 16, 1906. This excellent new index will facilitate access to these important records. The project demonstrates clearly how the work of family historians can enhance the preservation and useability of historical records for all researchers.
