Christian Schmitt, Early Settler

The Christ Schmitt home was located six miles west, two south, and one-half mile east of Madison. The home was built around 1884 by Christ Schmitt for his wife, Philippina, and their 13 children. When it was built, the home had 18 rooms. In addition to his family, the home was a residence for the hired men and the minister from the Evangelical United Brethren Church which stood a short distance to the west. Mrs. Beth Rottler, at one time, lived in the home and said that the dining room of the house was 16 feet by 24 feet and that the table would seat 40 people. [Mrs. Beth Rottler's husband was Frederick A. Rottler. He was the son of William and Clara Elizabeth (Schmitt) Rottler]. The house was the first in the area to have a gas lighting system and also the first to have water in the house with an inside bathroom.

Christ Schmitt was a county commissioner at one time. He donated the land for the first District 19 school house and also the land for the cemetery that still is in existence on the north side of the road across from where the church stood. After landing in the new world he started for the west, and settled in Will County, Illinois, where he remained five years. He married Philippina [or Philipina] Gabelman on January 19, 1869. [She was born Sept. 22 1848 and died Aug. 20, 1901.] Philippina was a sister of Jacob "J. D." Gabelman. After her marriage to Christ, they moved to Nebraska in 1871. He liked the country so much that Jacob and his parents moved to Nebraska in 1872, and also homesteaded in Green Garden Precinct. Philippina's parents lived on the homestead until they retired in 1875.

Winnie Reeves Dead

Prominent Young Lady of Battle Creek Called--- Hundreds Attend Funeral Held Tuesday

Death came to Miss Winnifred Reeves, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Reeves, at the home in Battle Creek early Monday morning after an illness of less than ten days. Miss Reeves had suffered somewhat at times with jaundice and the complaint appeared to be yielding under ordinary treatment. Finally, when she was forced to take to her bed, the case became hopeless almost before it was realized her condition was serious. Best physicians and competent nurses could do nothing to stay the end. She lapsed into unconsciousness and passed quietly away at a time when she appeared to be suffering the least.

Funeral services were held at the family home in south Battle Creek Tuesday afternoon. Rev. W. C. Harper of Madison officiated and he was assisted by Rev. M. Doherty of Wisconsin, formerly pastor of the Battle Creek Baptist church. Floral designs and cut flowers, gifts of loving friends, banked the bier and covered the beautiful casket. Over five hundred from all parts of the county gathered to pay last respects and the great majority of those made up the cortege which followed the remains to the Osborn cemetery in Schoolcraft where last rites were performed.

Winnifred Reeves was born at the old Reeves home south of Battle Creek on November 5, 1916, and remained the baby of the family. At the time of her death she was 21 years, 9 months and 27 days old. A few years ago, when the parents moved to town, Winnifred entered the schools of Battle Creek and was graduated with honors from the high school with the class of 1917. During her school days Winnie's sweet face and vivacious ways won the hearts of teachers and classmates. Bright, happy, and always cheerful, she was the life of the home, now made desolate by her untimely departure.

"She had just passed her happy teens; the time when youth stands waiting before the half-open door that leads into a fairer and more promising land of dreams and flowers. And as she would have entered a messenger came and said,

'Come this way; it is best,'

"She fought her fights, she kept the faith,
Her fame shines bright and clear,
And her memory lives in all our hearts,
Which will hold it ever dear."

There survives: the parents, two brothers, Enoch and Grover, and three sisters, Miss Cora Reeves, Mrs. Charity Cox, and Mrs. Blanche Cox, the latter residing at Seneca, Nebraska.

Death of W. M. Robertson

The sad news came to our city Tuesday morning of the death of our former townsman, W. M. Robertson, at his home in Norfolk. He passed away at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning.

William M. Robertson was born Andes, Delaware county, N. Y., January 23, 1848. His parents were born and married in Scotland, coming to America in 1841 and settling in Delaware county, N. Y. He studied law and was admitted to practice, and in April 1874, he removed to Nebraska, locating at Norfolk, and engaged in the practice of his profession. After practicing in Norfolk for two years he removed to Madison and practiced for sixteen years. Then he returned to Norfolk, where he has since resided.

On Dec. 29, 1870, he was married at Forreston, Ill., to Miss Anna M. Garver and three children have been born to them. A daughter [Ruth] is the wife of Prof. Geo. C. Williams and lives in Ithaca, N. Y. A son, Sidney D., has been associated with his father in the practice of law in Norfolk under the firm name of Robertson & Robertson. One son died in infancy.

He also leaves an aged mother who is lying seriously ill in Omaha and unable to attend the funeral and three brothers, Collin of Forreston, Ill., D. K. of this city, and Fremont of Omaha who formerly resided in our city to mourn the loss of husband, father, son and brother.

for the republican nomination for governor and in many other ways a distinguished member of his part and was prominently mentioned as the District Judge in the Ninth judicial district to take the place of Judge Boyd. He was the president of the Commercial Club of Norfolk at the time of his death. Although he had not lived in our city for about 15 years, yet he never forgot his old friends here and always had a hearty handshake for all when visiting our city.

The closing words of his address at the memorial services of the Elks last month which was his last public utterance, are significant at this time:

"We little know what the future has in store for us. We cannot lift the veil and get a glimpse of the future, but let us press on doing the best we can, so far as life's duties are concerned, with the hope that the world will be better and not worse on account of our having lived in it."

The funeral services were held at the M. E. Church in Norfolk Thursday afternoon at one o'clock. Rev. Turner of the Congregational church preached the funeral sermon and paid many glowing tributes to his esteemed friend. The Methodist pastor assisted in the services. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The remains were laid to rest in Prospect Hill cemetery. Source: Excerpts from The Madison Star-Mail, January 25, 1907, page 1.

Albert Stark is Killed

Workman in the Northwestern Machine Shops

Struck on Neck with Lever

Was Lowering Engine Tank When Lever Slipped Out of His Hands and He Received Blow on Neck That Caused Fracture at Base of Brain.

Albert Stark, a workman in the Chicago and Northwestern machine shop, received injuries at about 5 o'clock last evening, from which he died at 9.

No very definite account of the accident can be secured, as no one was present when it happened. Stark was working on one side of a engine tank while another workman was on the other side. The tank had been raised on jack screws and the men were lowering it to the trucks, when Stark's companion called to him but received no answer, Going around the tank the other workman found stark unconscious, and all efforts by his companions failed to revive him, It is supposed that in letting down the tank the handle of the jack screw slipped away from him and struck him, Hw was taken to his home in the eastern part of the Junction where he died about 9 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

Dr. Holden, the attending physician, discovered one small mark on the man's neck, just back of the jaw, where the lever struck him. The blow caused a fracture at the base of the brain, death following from internal hemorrhage.

The deceased was about thirty years old, and leaves a wife and two children, one about three and the other one year old. He had been with the company but a short time. Mr. Stark came here from Ponca, where his people live, while his wife's parents reside at Pierce.

Arrangements for funeral have not yet been made, pending the arrival of relatives.

ohn Strate

John Frederick William Ludolf Strate was born at Lieme, Lippe Detmold, Germany, January 7, 1822. He died near Hoskins, Wayne county, Neb., April 10, 1910, at 12 m. aged 88 years, 3 months and 3 days. His death was caused by old age and pneumonia.

For some years the deceased had been feeble and ailing as the consequences of old age, but for six days only was he confined to his bed, when death relieved him from all earthly pain and woe.

Mr. Strate came to this country from Germany, in company with his wife, the 15th day of May 1870, making their home from the first in this vicinity. In the old country Mr. Strate was a brick maker by trade, but took a homestead in this country and devoted himself to farming ever after. He was one of the early settlers of his neighborhood and, consequently, endured all the hardships of pioneer life. The first years of his sojourning in this country were unusually trying, hail and drouth visiting and destroying to a great extent the promising fields of grain.

The deceased brother was one of the founders and main stays of the Reformed congregation, three miles southwest of Hoskins, and for some years an officer of that church. He remained a faithful member of the same to the end, although in late years he was not able to attend services and take an active part in the affairs of the congregation on account of failing health and strength.

Mr. Frederick Strate was joined in holy matrimony with his surviving wife, Auguste Sophia, whose maiden names was Dreves, February 4, 1866, in Germany. This union was blessed with nine children, seven sons and two daughters, three of who have preceeded their father in death, two sons and one daughter, one of the sons having died in the old country. Those who are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father are: his bereaved widow, fives sons, Frederick, jr., Simon, Carl, Ernest and William, and one daughter, Mrs. Sophia Knebel, all of whom are living in this vicinity. Besides theses there are four daughters-in-law, one son-in-law and eleven grandchildren, also more distant relatives and many friends. May their loss be his gain.

Funeral services were held at the Reformed church near Hoskins on Wednesday afternoon, April 13, after which interment was made at the cemetery of said congregation, Rev. Emil F. Franz, officiating.
